- Sell & Rent Back

About Us

A Quick Sale is the number one property buyer in the UK. We're a national company with local associates in every area throughout England, Scotland, Wales and Northen Ireland.

We offer tailor-made solutions to buy your property directly from you. We're not an estate agent which means we can help you with a quick property sale and find solutions to keep you in your home, through rent or buy-back options.

We make a "trade offer" for your home - usually 75-90% of the open-market value - and in return we offer a rapid, professional and trusted service to release your equity with no additional fees.

An honest and professional approach

We appreciate that a quick sale is not the best solution for everyone and that you may be facing difficult decisions about your life, home and family, including facing repossession, divorce or financial difficulties.

Our approach is to be open and honest with you right from the start. Our business is about offering a guaranteed quick property sale, whereas an open-market sale with an estate agent could fetch a higher price.

There are no hidden catches or obligations. We offer a competitive trade price with no added fees for any part of our service, including valuations and legal costs.

We also believe in helping you find a solution that suits you personally and making what can be a stressful experience as easy as possible. This is reflected in our24-hour freephone service - it's always answered by a human, not a machine - any you'll always have a member of our local team to guide you throughout the process when you deal with us.

We've helped thousands of people find a solution when they couldn't see a way out. We'll always present you with options that can help, and you'll never be put under any pressure unless you feel it's right for you.

Soaking up the summer sun

Year 11 pupils at Coombe Girls' School swapped tearful goodbyes for a battle of stamina, water and willpower on Friday, when they took part in an afternoon of It's a Knockout-style games before heading off on study leave.

Two teams of girls battled it out over bright inflatable props and drenched each other in the early summer sunshine to take some of the pressure off knuckling down for their GCSE revision.

Selling off properties is key to lowering authority's £162m bill

by DAVID LINDSELL
dlindsell@london.newsquest.co.uk

Kingston Council will sell off unwanted properties to bring down its £162m debt, according to the man who has overseen much of the rise in borrowing.

When the Conservative party was last controlling the purse strings at the Guildhall back in 1999 the debt was £110.4m, most of it historical, dating back more than 40 years from a period of building homes, schools and other structures.

Since then, the borrowing of the Liberal Democrat council has risen to nearly half of the yearly budget of £348.5m and it is now making debt repayments of about £6.5m a year.

Conservative leader Councillor Howard Jones said: "It is putting the future of the council and the future of the administration and the future of residents in hock."

When asked how the Tories would improve the situation, he said: "The answer is, we wouldn't be in a debt situation in the first place.

"They spend money like water on things like the [Rose] Theatre and various other pet projects.

"What the administration is doing is putting up a huge sum total of debt that will have to be paid back by future generations.

"It is like any mortgage. If you borrow, you have to pay it back."

Lib Dem leader Councillor Derek Osbourne said the debt had built up through investments on roadworks, schools and buildings owned by the council.

He said: "The question is: would the council be able to continue to provide basic services without that investment?

"The answer is no. We get income from these investments."

Failed attempts to hand over council housing to a private company would have eradicated much of the debt, Coun Osbourne claimed, but he still hoped to drive down the debt with other sales.

"The hope is to have a property strategy that gets income from buildings worth having and sells off buildings we don't need," he said.

Neighbouring Richmond Council has a £439m total turnover.

Its total outstanding debt at end of March was £44m.

Disabled riders' box taken

by DAVID LINDSELL
dlindsell@london.newsquest.co.uk

A horsebox to transport animals ridden by disabled people has been found on a travellers' site in Tolworth.

Epsom Riding for the Disabled Association was resigned never to see the horsebox again after it was stolen on the night of April 22.

Three days later, police found it at Swallow Park, Tolworth, an Irish and English travellers' site, along with a caravan stolen from the Clackett Lane service station.

Stella Milne, chairman of the association, said transporting the horses to the vet or to shows would have been impossible if the horsebox had not been found or replaced at a cost.

She said: "We really didn't expect to see it again. It was lost and gone forever.

"I was absolutely flabbergasted when the police phoned us. I had sent emails to various people – Horse Weekly and people down in the New Forest – and I had to send more emails saying we had got it back.

"We would have had to have another box or get some able-bodied riders and ride them through Epsom, which isn't a particularly pleasant ride for our horses."

The caravan found at the site had had its identity changed – a process known to police as being rung or cloned – and was found before it was sold on. It will now be returned to its rightful owner.

Chief Inspector Cliff Law of Kingston police said: "I am delighted that we have been able to return this stolen horsebox to Epsom Riding for the Disabled. I am saddened that thieves will go to such low levels to steal, regardless of the consequences to others."

Epsom Riding for the Disabled Association was formed in 1969 with one shetland pony called Bubbles and four riders.

It helps disabled people learn to ride horses and takes part in the annual Horse Show on Epsom Downs. It has over 200 regular riders.

Public faces post offices 'massacre'

by DAVID LINDSELL
dlindsell@london.newsquest.co.uk

Six post offices will be closed as part of a cost-cutting exercise, despite massive opposition and hopes a public consultation would persuade Post Office Ltd.

Two branches in Kingston, two in New Malden, one in Surbiton and one in Worcester Park could now be closed as early as July. A spokesman for Post Office Ltd, which will shut at least 155 branches across London, said: "These are difficult decisions which have not been taken lightly."

Kingston and Surbiton MP Edward Davey said: "I'm angry and disappointed. People will be left wondering whether the consultation exercise was a complete farce.

"The Government is massacring Kingston's post office network.

"I predict there will be queuing out of the door at the main post offices at Kingston and Surbiton when they finally shut these offices."

Diane Clarke, who has worked at the Plough Green post office in Worcester Park for eight years, said: "Near enough every one of the pensioners coming in is gutted it is closing. I have had a couple of them coming in crying. They thought they would be able to save it."

Mary Stark, 69, a regular visitor to the post office in Kingston Road, New Malden, said: "We are really angry. We really did think this one would be kept open. It is going to come as a real shock to a lot of people."

Kingston council leader Councillor Derek Osbourne condemned the consultation. He said: "Quite clearly the consultation was a total sham as we always thought it was."

Post office counters in Burlington Road and Kingston Road in New Malden, Hook Rise South in Surbiton, Malden Road in Worcester Park and Surbiton Road and Chestnut Grove in Kingston, will all be shut, adding to five other branches closed in the past few years.

"How I Transformed My Kitchen Without Having to Buy a New One"

"My kitchen was over 10 years old and looked tatty. I desperately needed a new kitchen but didn't want the cost or upheaval. I had heard good reports of Dream Doors, who specialise in kitchen facelifts, so I decided to give them a try. What an amazing transformation!

As well as fitting brand new doors and worktops, everything was colour co-ordinated and I even gained additional cupboard space. My kitchen has been transformed in just over a day and I saved 60% of the cost of a new one!

I was under no obligation from the initial visit, and the advice and estimate I received were free of charge. There was no mess, no fuss, just plenty of friendly, helpful advice and I didn't need to pay the balance until I was completely satisfied!

‘Street hospital is proving a success’

A town centre triage designed partly to keep drunken revellers from clogging up accident and emergency departments has proved a success, according to Kingston’s town centre management group.

The makeshift medical facility set up in Kingston’s Market House saw only 16 people during a five week trial, running on Friday and Saturday nights.

Most of the people who used Safe Place were suffering from minor cuts and bruises and only one person stumbled in drunk.

Despite the low numbers on the 10 evenings, town centre management firm Kingston-first said that with all but one of the injuries an ambulance would have been called.

by DAVID LINDSELL

dlindsell@london.newsquest.co.uk

Graham McNally, town centre manager, said: “This initiative is a tremendous example of the town centre’s partners working well together to bring benefits to the wider community.

“The project has given us an insight into how the night-time economy is operating. This information will help us to consider allocation of services and resources so we can provide appropriate advice and support to people visiting our town in the evenings.”

Roy Taylor, chairman of the Safer Kingston Partnership, which paid for the trial, said: “These headline statistics make interesting reading but need to be seen in context, so we are undertaking a full analysis, comparing data from partner agencies for this year and for 2007 and during the five weeks prior, during and after the trial.

“We will consider the evidence of the full analysis before making any commitments, but there is clearly great enthusiasm from the partners involved for further trials to be run.”

Safe Place staff treated 11 of the injured people without the need for a hospital visit. Three were taken to hospital by St John Ambulance and another person was collected by the London Ambulance Service.

Read all about it: Jane Legate with her new book

Selling by the book

If you have ever wanted to know more about buying a house than the blurb from the estate agent, then one Surbiton woman has a solution.

Photographer Jane Legate decided to offer a bit more to prospective buyers of her Victorian townhouse and published a book detailing every aspect of Osborne House, charting the renovation work done and even showing pictures of the garden through the seasons.

The book contains 120 colour photos of the house and garden and Jane believes it will make prospective buyers leap at the chance of meeting the £1,395,000 asking price.

Teenage pregnancy rates falling

Teenage pregnancy rates are falling across Kingston and are currently at their lowest level for over 20 years, according to health officials.

Fifty-nine girls became pregnant before their 18th birthday in 2006, compared with 73 in 1998, according to official figures.

The NHS said 73 per cent of the pregnancies in 2006 led to abortions.

Kingston was only one of two London boroughs to move towards its target of a 40 per cent reduction over 10 years.

Xanthe Foster, Kingston’s teenage pregnancy co-ordinator, said: “Despite our good progress, reducing the number of teenage pregnancies is still a key priority and there is a clear commitment to achieving further reductions in time to meet the 2010 national target.

“Reducing our under-18 conception rate is a key strand of the local children and young peoples’ plan.”

Kingston Primary Care Trust said every school had a sex and relationships policy tackling both the biological facts and issues including how to talk about sex within relationships.

End of line for Drapers

Local legacy: Drapers Tools was once one of Kingston's biggest companies until it moved out

by DAVID LINDSELL
dlindsell@london.newsquest.co.uk

The legacy of Drapers Tools in Kingston looked set to go this week, with Kingston Council's executive committee expected to approve changing Drapers car park to the Rose Theatre car park.

The company started out in Kingston nearly 90 years ago and the rebranding exercise, due for approval at Tuesday night's executive committee meeting, will cost £5,000 to replace signs and tickets with the new name.

Tory leader Councillor Howard Jones described the decision as "out of order".

Drapers Tools started out in 1919 when the founder, Bert Draper, sold Government surplus and tools from a hand barrow at Kingston's markets.

He bought a warehouse on the site, which is now the car park, starting B Draper & Son Limited. When he died in 1963, his son Norman moved the business away from Kingston to Hampshire.

Bert's grandson John is now company chairman and sister Margaret is also involved.

Clive Richardson of Drapers Tools said: "From a point of view of nostalgia and history it is a bit of a shame. But at the end of the day we were a company in the area. I suppose it is called progress."

Others were keener on the change.

Jennifer Butterworth, chairman of the Kingston Society, said: "It is a very good idea. Drapers car park means nothing whereas the Rose car park, there's a chance that people know where it is.

"We have to make new heritages as well."

Mayor 'must keep pledge'

Boris Johnson must keep his election pledge to re-zone Kingston and Surbiton stations to save commuters hefty price rises, according to MP Edward Davey.

During his successful mayoral campaign, Mr Johnson said Ken Livingstone had ignored the unfairness of fares for too long.

He said: "Kingston's commuters deserve better value for their hard-earned money. I will knuckle down and deliver that value for money."

by DAVID LINDSELL
dlindsell@london.newsquest.co.uk

Kingston and Surbiton MP Mr Davey said: "We got him to agree that he would back our campaign. It was only when reporters asked him he decided he would back it.

"I have sent him a letter saying 'congratulations on your victory and obviously you will want to meet your pledge. When can we meet?'"

Mr Davey said he wanted to get things moving in time for January 1, when any re-zoning would be likely to take place, to avoid a £400 hike in season ticket prices the next year.

He said: "We are already having to pay a price. When the zonal pricing link to season tickets comes in on January 1, 2010, there's a danger all season ticket holders will see major rises."

Both stations are in zone six but are only 12 miles from London, closer than 23 zone five stations.

A spokesman for South West Trains said: "It is within the gift of Transport for London to do that. It is not really for us to decide what the boundaries are."

Any decision about re-zoning will have to go the Association of Train Operator Companies before a consultation with all the rail companies which use the stations.

In a spin: Zayna Polakovs with Park Hill school pupils

Children keeping up a clowning tradition

Park Hill School pupils got into a spin recently, when the grand-daughter of Coco, Britain's most famous clown, visited to teach them some special circus tricks.

The children are due to appear at Kingston's Rose Theatre later this month to perform themed dance, songs and a selection of circus tricks in Coco the Clown style, as part of the school's annual summer concert, The Circus.

Zayna Polakovs, who runs Coco's School to keep her grandfather's skills alive, said: "The children at Park Hill were so responsive and charming – I'm looking forward to seeing them perform their skills in true Coco style."

Finances not rosy as theatre bill increases

by DAVID LINDSELL

dlindsell@london.newsquest.co.uk

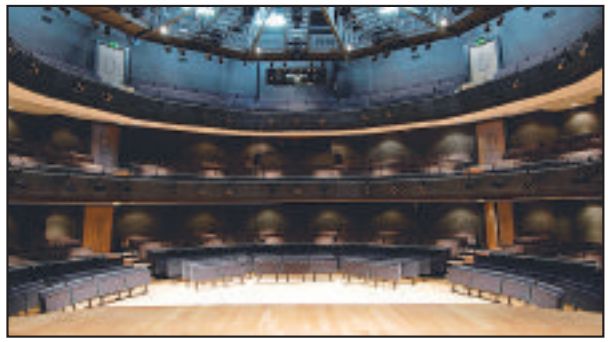

The finances of the Rose Theatre are set to come under scrutiny over "broken promises" by the executive of Kingston Council.

Last-minute health and safety concerns over doors and wires at the Rose Theatre had landed council taxpayers with a new £350,000 extension to the bill.

Conservative councillors were threatening to call in the decision if the handover of the money was approved by executive members at a Tuesday evening meeting.

So far, the Kingston Theatre Limited Liability Partnership, set up to fund the theatre refit, has been loaned £5.2m, with the council funding 95 per cent

If the Conservatives call in the decision, an overview panel made up of Tories and Lib Dems will be able to quiz council leader Councillor Derek Osbourne and ask for more information about the council's role in funding the theatre.

Under scrutiny: Health and safety concerns have added £350,000 to the Rose Theatre bill

They can also ask "interested parties" to attend a meeting, raising the prospect of the board of the Kingston Theatre Limited Liability Partnership being grilled.

Speaking ahead of Tuesday's meeting, Coun Osbourne said: "We expect them to call it in. The alternative is not to pay the bills of the business. Are the Conservatives really saying if some work is done they are not paying the bills?"

See this week's Surrey Comet for more on this story.

New mayor

In office: New mayor David Berry and deputy Rohan Yoganathan

The new mayor and deputy mayor of Kingston have been invested with chains of office.

The pair perform ceremonial duties for the council and help charities and organisations raise money.

The new mayor, Councillor David Berry, who represents the Alexandra ward in Surbiton, will support Combat Stress, the ex-services Mental Welfare Society and the force's Children's Trust, a charity devoted to helping dependent children who have lost a parent who was serving with the armed forces. The deputy mayor is former Tiffin School pupil Councillor Rohan Yoganathan, son of former mayor Yogan, who, at 28, is said to be the youngest British Sri Lankan deputy mayor in the country.

Police launch train scheme

Kingston commuters should feel safer as they travel, after British Transport Police announced they were launching a new neighbourhood policing team. Based at Clapham Junction station, the teams will patrol South West Train services and the 22 stations on the loop from Clapham Junction to Kingston. The team, consisting one sergeant and eight constables, will cut crime and reassure passengers, working closely with local safer neighbourhood teams.

Collection: Poet India Russell

Speaking volumes

A packed week is in store for literary lovers as the Kingston Readers' Festival continues.

It aims to bring together authors, journalists and critics for a series of debates, readings and seminars and it runs until May 23.

Highlights for this week include best-selling author Marina Lewycka speaking at All Saints' Church, Kingston, at 6.30pm on May 19. She wrote A Short History of Tractors in Ukranian.

Crime writer John Connolly will talk about his new offering, The Reapers, at Borders in Market Place, Kingston, at 7pm on Wednesday, May 14. Leith's Cookery School will give food and wine demonstrations at John Lewis, Kingston, at 7.30pm on Thursday, May 15.

India Russell, a poet from Worcester Park, will read from her collection, The Kaleidoscope of Time, at Kingston Museum at 7.30pm on May 16. There is a discussion on Salman Rushdie at Kingston University at 11.30am on May 17.

Tickets can be booked at the Rose theatre box office, by calling 0871 2301552 or visit rosetheatrekingston.org.

Low truancy success

by MIKE DIDYMUS
mdidymus@london.newsquest.co.uk

Truancy in Kingston schools is down yet again, according to Government figures released earlier this month.

Average attendance at schools in the borough was 94.6 per cent during 2007's autumn term, with other related statistics putting Kingston among the top five best performing local authorities in the country for preventing absences.

It was a whisker away from the plaudit of having the lowest overall truancy rate in the country, but was beaten by the statistical anomaly which is the City of London, which had only 179 enrolments last year, compared with Kingston's 16,482.

Ming Zhang, principal education welfare officer at Kingston Council, praised the council's work in partnership with headteachers, adding that the introduction of innovative schemes was central to the figures.

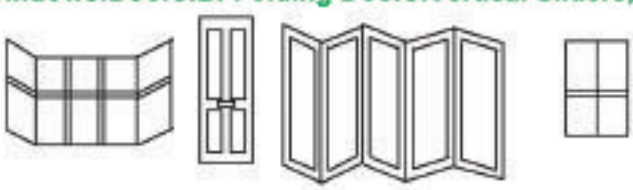

He said: "We've consistently over the past four or five years been among the best performers in the country and one thing that makes us so successful is our evidence-based approach – whatever we do has research behind it to find the reasons for success.

"We have a very effective measure we have implemented, to reward young people who do not go on holidays in term time. We work with travel agents to give a 30 per cent discount on family trips in the school holidays.

"We've also worked together with the local health services to provide guidance for parents so they know what occasions they should keep their children at home and what occasions schools can manage."

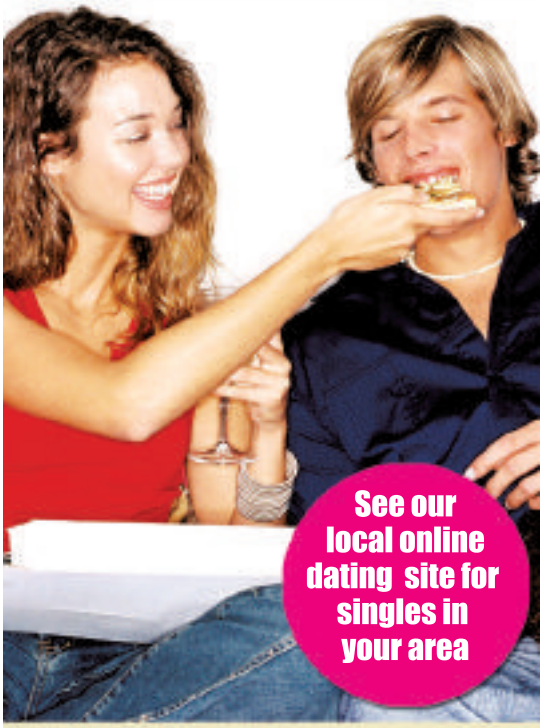

Mr Zhang added that the council was keen to retain its place at the top of the league tables and would strive to close the gap between the best and worse performing schools in the borough for truancy.

Artists cash in on mayor

by DAVID LINDSELL
dlindsell@london.newsquest.co.uk

Mosaics with peacocks, elephants, bananas and lotuses made using money from the mayor's charity three years ago, have been unveiled at the Milaap Centre.

Members of the multicultural centre for older people in Acre Road showed their work to the former mayor, Councillor Yogan Yoganathan, who raised the money during 2005/06.

Manager Shantini Sangarabalan said: "They are all elderly people and it was a learning experience for them.

"The mosaics show various aspects of Asian culture, plants and animals which can be found in India, Sri Lanka, Pakistan and elsewhere."

The two pieces won prizes in a recent art competition among other day centres and have been fixed on to the outside walls of the centre.

The £11,673 given to Milaap also helped fix the heater for a transporter van.

Night-riders on a mission to deliver

DAVID LINDSELL meets the volunteers who ride through the night to to deliver emergency supplies of blood across southern England to those in need

Night-time bike riders who carry emergency supplies of blood to patients fighting for their lives are setting off on a fundraising road trip from Land's End to John O'Groats.

The volunteers, based in New Malden, are on call every night of the year to deliver blood, platelets and plasma to hospitals across southern England.

Two of the "blood runners" will now set off on a trip around Britain to raise vital money to keep the service going.

Phil Watson, 54, will rev up his Triumph Trophy BRG, the same bike he uses to help Service by Emergency Rider Volunteers (Serv).

The Raynes Park resident and Rotary Club member started riding after hitting 50, when his wife let him, and he is one of the lucky few who are on call from their own home.

Others travel from across the region to stay in the Serv office in New Malden.

He said: "It is just fantastic. I love it, even at 4am when I have to get out of bed. It is an emergency we are talking about. They need it now. It is saving lives."

When Phil gets a call, he rides to the National Blood Transfusion service behind St George's Hospital in Tooting.

After signing for the delivery he is quickly off to his destination. A couple of blood bags are strapped on the back of the bike carrying about 15 units in each. He meets another volunteer halfway to his destination hospital and hands over the package.

He said: "We just say 'hello', shake hands and go through all the necessities. Time is of the essence."

Despite the urgency, blood runners don't break speed limits.

"You have got to do it quickly but you have got to do it safely," he said. "We have no blue lights. We are not allowed to break any limits or go through any lights.

"We never hear what has happened to the patient. I know it is sad but it has got to be that way, with the confidentiality of all patients paramount."

The team at New Malden Serv includes printers, university students and postal workers, as well as Phil, who also runs Cheesemonger, delivering English cheeses to customers across London. Steve Aston, 27, who is also doing the ride, is a mechanic in Morden.

His wife Jeanette, a secretary at accountants Atkinson in New Malden, and daughter Joanna, 25, will see him off on May 17, from bikers' haunt Box Hill near Dorking.

The pair will divide the money they raise between Serv and Marie Curie Cancer Care in Caterham.

Firms get a lorry load of laughs from book

A book proposing banning daytime truck deliveries has been dismissed as nonsense by haulage associations, despite interest from Edward Davey MP.

Peter Mole, a retired mechanical engineer, wrote Green, User-friendly Transport and sent a copy to Mr Davey, MP for Kingston and Surbiton, who described it as "comprehensive and interesting".

But the proposals, including more smaller trucks and banning lorries in town centres during the day, has been called "a joke" by the Road Haulage Association.

Nurses stay well abreast

Kingston Primary Care Trust (PCT) has been helping nursery nurses and health visitors in the latest techniques in breastfeeding for new mothers.

The courses, held in March and April, were part of the build up to National Breastfeeding Awareness week from May 11 to 17.

The PCT also held a breastfeeding drop-in session at the café at Hawks Road Clinic on Wednesday, May 14, from 11.30am to 1pm.

Travel firm is grounded

Chessington-based tour operator Barwell Travel has blamed the economic downturn caused by the credit crunch for going out of business.

Barwell Travel, which specialised in package holidays to Spanish resort La Manga, collapsed after 38 years in business. Administrator Menzies Corporate Restructuring was brought in and it has been bought by long-haul tailor-made specialist LeisureFare.

Providing happy holidays

A disability charity will be fundraising on the ground floor of the Bentall Centre on Saturday. The Disaway Trust is a Kingston-based charity which organises group holidays for physically disabled people and carers. All of the money raised will go towards helping support Kingston residents attend the remaining two out of three holidays.

Merton College students impress with their skills in business

Business students win prizes

Merton College business students have been winning prizes for both their academic knowledge and practical business skills recently.

Students taking part in the Young Enterprise programme, where students form businesses that trade like real companies, picked up awards at trade fairs.

Both Merton's companies have done well. Fresh and Unique, which sells candles, collected the prize for Best Selling Techniques from the Mayor of Sutton Councillor Myfanwy Wallace at a fair at the St Nicholas Centre.

I Poze, which enables customers to personalise products, won awards for Best Company Report and Outstanding Professionalism at a fair at Sutton High School. The college's A-level business students have also been busy, attending a London conference alongside 600 business students from across the region, to look at case studies and business scenarios from the food industry.

Merton's students collected two of the five awards available in the competitive activities. The overall winner in a quiz covering a case study and economics in general was Merton's A-level student Naz Choudhury.

Festival could change your life

The largest festival of learning in the UK is on its way. Adult Learners' Week, which runs from May 17-23 and is organised by the National Institute of Adult Continuing Education (NIACE), is a time when thousands of people consider a return to learning and begin a journey that can completely transform their lives for the better.

This is illustrated perfectly by the Adult Learners' Week award-winners, who are recognised for their remarkable achievements through learning.

Their inspirational stories clearly demonstrate the effectiveness of learning as an adult.

Some of this year's awards will be presented to:

- a woman who has gone from GCSE maths to a first class honours degree in only six years, and who has now started a PhD;
- a former school cleaner who is now a school-teacher;
- an ex-policeman who had to retire due to two strokes but who has now become a qualified gym instructor;
- a deaf man who has completed his FA coaching qualifications and who now coaches the Royal Society for the Deaf Football Team;
- a 95-year-old man who is learning how to use computers;
- and a beauty therapist who has changed careers and who is now a car mechanic.

During last year's Adult Learners' Week, more than 8,000 learning events took place, attracting around 100,000 visitors and participants.

Every year, adults will get a taste of learning in colleges, shops and supermarkets, factories and businesses, libraries and museums, community and adult education centres.

Some events already organised for this year include medieval martial arts at Kenilworth Castle, singing, holiday languages, forensic science, welding for women, horse riding, family history , computers, digital photography, creative writing, architectural drawing, monks' meals and what we eat now, taxidermy, and improving your maths.

Further details of the events on offer are available from the online calendar of events alw.org.uk/calendar

This year sees the inaugural Dance Off 2008, with more than 100 events due to take place across the country to celebrate Cultural Diversity Weekend.

The dances range from ballroom, salsa, belly dance, Jewish wedding dance, American smooth-style waltz to Latin cha cha, Argentine tango, rumba, samba and Kathak.

Rachel Thomson, senior campaigns officer at NIACE, said: "Adult Learners' Week is the perfect time for you to see the kind of positive impact that learning can have on your life. The remarkable stories of the inspirational learners we celebrate with our awards, illustrate just how learning can completely transform your life for the better."

"Whatever you want out of life, learning can steer you in the direction you want it to go in. There will be thousands of events taking place across the country, and to find out more about what's on offer during this year's Adult Learners' Week, visit our the website alw.org.uk or call learndirect free on 0800 100 900."

Actively eco: Bluegrass/country band the Hightown Crows at the Kingston Green Fair last year, while project administrator Adrian Collins takes a break during the community furniture market in Market Place, part of last year's Paint the Town Green Fortnight

Kingston's biggest environmental event kicked off today as all were invited to Paint the Town Green and get eco-friendly.

The Paint the Town Green festival, in its second year, is a veritable feast of green-related events designed to raise awareness and offer ideas on how the borough can become greener.

Billed as having "fabulous, fun and friendly family activities", the festival wants to make Kingston "at the cutting edge of environmental awareness and problem-solving".

It precedes the capital's Love London sustainability festival, which starts in June 1, and culminates in the 21st Kingston Green Fair on May 26.

by PETER TRUMAN
ptruman@london.newsquest.co.uk

From human rights to penguin rights, there are activities to inspire, educate and intrigue.

And this year for the first time, the message is available over the airwaves via the green radio service, which was launched yesterday.

The solar-powered radio station, the Kingston Green Radio project, will be on air 10 days after the green fair.

Kingston resident Sam Hermitage will run the station from the Environment Centre in Fairfield South.

He will use a renewable energy unit charged by eight solar panels to power the station and ensure its green credentials are as strong as its message.

DJ Sean Creed, from Brighton's Reverb Radio, and John Moore, who runs Radio Avalon at the Glastonbury festival, will help out with their broadcasting experience.

Other highlights include sustainable gardening advice throughout the festival at Chessington Garden Centre, Leatherhead Road, and an Eco Home demonstration with tips to reduce your ecological footprint at Bentalls Centre.

The Green Police will be out in force over the weekend of May 17 and 18, patrolling the streets to educate people about dropping litter.

The Big Picture

❑ Shell's attempt to drill billions of barrels of oil from waters close to the Arctic Circle could be stopped by the polar bear. In 10 days' time the US government will rule on whether the polar bear is an endangered species.

If it is, environmentalists have vowed to take legal action to halt any exploration in Alaska's Chukchi Sea, under which lie seven billion barrels of oil. In February, Shell paid hundreds of millions of dollars to the US government for licences to extract oil and gas there.

COLLEGE BIKE BOOST: Kingston College has encouraged more of its staff to ditch the car and take advantage of its bike pool. As part of its travel plan, the college offers the use of its bikes to its 900 members of staff when commuting between the main site in Kingston Hall Road, the school of art and design in Richmond Road, and the north Kingston site, also in Richmond Road.

BLOOM TIME AGAIN: Green-fingered residents are being urged to enter the Kingston in Bloom competition, but it is not all about flowers. The scheme, backed by the Kingston Sustainable Gardening Group, aims to create long-term improvements to your natural space. For more information on the categories and how to enter, call 020 8547 5506 or visit kingston.gov.uk/inbloom

BORIS, WE'RE WATCHING: When Boris Johnson visited this newspaper's offices in February he pledged to be "the greenest mayor ever" if he was elected to lead London. Now that he has become Mayor of London, the Green Guardian is looking forward to seeing him delivering on this crucial election pledge.

Conservationists wanted to sculpt nature

Volunteers are needed for work at the permaculture site at Knollmead in Surbiton.

Practical conservation tasks include pruning and cutting back brambles.

There is also an ambitious plan to create a living willow sculpture of a horse.

The work takes place on Sunday, May 18, from noon.

Volunteers should wear stout footwear and protective clothing, and bring along any gardening equipment they might need.

Tea and biscuits are provided.

For more information contact Simone Kay on 07737 277470.

A company is bidding to help businesses take action on the environment, after it found 39 per cent of businesses spent less than an hour a week tackling green issues.

Envirowise has launched a new online tool, the Envirowise Publications Wizard, to help companies embrace resource efficiency so they have more time to spare for the environment.

Companies of all sizes and sectors can use the wizard to search selected information from more than 600 publications in the quickest and most efficient way.

Specific topics can be selected and the tool will then formulate a tailor-made PDF document covering all environmental issues relevant to them.

Benefits of the publication wizard include information relevant to each business, easily manageable PDF files and personalised documents containing the company name.

Q & A

Each week we will ask a question on a Green related subject. This week:

Q. The amount of waste created by the average UK resident in their lifetime is equivalent to the weight of how many cars?

Answer to last week's question: The wind around the UK coasts could meet three times the UK's energy needs if it were harnessed for energy.

Green Guardian is grateful to the following company for its generous sponsorship:

Transport booze ban to start in June

Boris Johnson's public transport alcohol ban will take effect from next month.

Shame on the unions though, upset at not being "consulted". Either you want to help and be part of making peoples' journeys better or you are just out for yourselves. I guess they will want extra pay due to the increased responsibility.

Simon, South Croydon

All these consultations just slow things down and stop them happening. What he is doing is a good thing and will be a positive change. I expect the "consultation" would have included a demand for extra pay due to the new responsibility of telling people not to drink, or am I being cynical?

D, Croydon

You would have thought the unions would have been pleased that someone was taking steps to protect both travellers and their own workers. Still the RMT is the last of old-style unions.

Kevin Davis

This is a great initiative, but how about stopping people who are already under the influence getting on public transport. I had the misfortune to be on a train from Waterloo only last week, at 4.30 in the afternoon where a female who was clearly drunk got on then was sick all over the seats. I avoid public transport specifically because of this sort of person. You would not be allowed to board an aeroplane in that sort of state, so why any other form of transport?

RG

I look forward to Bob Crowe calling a strike because his men will be put out by this. After all, it's getting a bit sunny at the moment and they need their time down the pub.

Alright Jack, Wimbledon

Rose Theatre is a financial parasite

Your disclosure of the latest "charitable donation" to the parasite enterprise the Rose will – hopefully – bring down the final curtain on what can best be described as a classic tragedy of financial mismanagement.

As secretary of the Cavendish Area Home Zone Community Association (CAHZCA), I have written to the leader of the council, who was economical with the truth at our recent meeting.

Unfortunately, this borough's 61,000 council taxpayers have been squeezed dry in the process. I doubt if there are many who are able to afford to go to the theatre now.

The loans raised by the council's executive over recent years to promote their ego-massaging project are costing about £400,000 in interest payments alone each year.

Forgive the cynicism, but every resident knows precisely where the Liberal Democrat priorities lie.

❑ Never mind about collecting non-recyclable, potentially health-hazardous, waste – you'll get that once a fortnight provided that you don't exceed your 180 litre "allowance" and overfill your wheelie bin!

❑ Sorry but we can't afford to keep Hobkirk House (and other key facilities) open because they are not cost-effective.

❑ Sorry about the latest fiasco with New Malden High Street – maybe we'll get it right at the fourth attempt...

❑ However, no worries – just as long as we do our "culture thing" and bung another £350,000 to pay for the latest mistakes on the white elephant. After all, what does a mere £8m or so matter in our grandiose scheme of things?

And politicians wonder why they don't get Christmas cards from constituents!

Red Lion redevelopment is far from satisfactory

Your article on the new development for the Red Lion public house site in Tolworth (Red Lion to stay on developed site, May 8) reads like the CNM Estates press release it was no doubt taken from.

Far from the "substantial nine-month consultation programme with both local residents and committee members" you suggest, the developers sent round different plans to the ones now submitted and had a poorly advertised exhibition of these plans for one evening only.

Any subsequent letters that were sent in respect of these plans were not acknowledged and although the fascia of the building has altered slightly in the plans now submitted to the council, the fundamental concerns of residents have not been addressed in any respect.

In truth, residents are horrified by the size and scale of this development and have already formed a residents' committee to fight it.

The building is too big, the density of dwellings far in excess of what is appropriate for the area and little or no thought has been given to the impact on already over-subscribed supporting services such as doctors, dentists and schools, as well as the increase in the already very significant parking problems in the area.

We can only hope Kingston Council takes more notice of the numerous objectors than CNM Estates chose to.

Lib Dems missed big chance to help schools

The Liberal Democrat administration excuses the lack of places for reception children because the rise in demand for places "had come as a bolt from the blue and could not have been predicted".

But the evidence was there for all to see; it was repeated to the executive at its meeting of January 22.

In the past eight years there have been 3,200 new units of accommodation either built or due to be built in north Kingston alone.

I said at the time that Fern Hill, for example, should be expanded from two form entry to three form entry, to cope with the proven increase in population.

But the administration did nothing; and still does nothing. They had ample opportunity some years ago to increase north Kingston's reception and infant places.

The Government offered £2m to rebuild and expand Latchmere Infants. But the Lib Dems, with Labour support, turned the offer down. They argued that such an expansion would harm nearby Richmond infant schools (Richmond then being Lib Dem-led).

"It will all be all right on the night" is the Lib Dem approach. Well, it won't be "all right". When are the Lib Dems and executive member Coun Patricia Bamford going to listen to the borough's parents?

Pedestrians are in danger

I walk to work along Queen Elizabeth Road, coming from Clifton Road.

Along with scores of school children going to Tiffin and Kingston Grammar schools from Cromwell Road, after getting off buses and trains, I cross on to Queen Elizabeth Road at the crossing with Birkenhead Avenue. Here, two sets of brick-built flower beds – designed to buffer crashing cars – have been knocked down again and again but have not been rebuilt for weeks, if not months, and presumably now offer little protection.

A few months ago, on my way home from work, I literally had to run with my daughter to avoid a car which mounted the pavement in Queen Elizabeth Road, just after the Birkenhead Avenue corner, after being hit by a van moving from the inside of three lanes to go left.

Traffic can move surprisingly fast on this short but straight stretch of road in a bid to beat the lights where Queen Elizabeth Road meets London Road, and three lanes of traffic means not infrequent swerving by cars in the middle lane towards the lane on the Tiffin side, when they realise there is only one lane to turn left.

The lanes are also quite narrow and I have seen buses in the left hand lane mount the pavement more than once.

The pavement, which is not particularly wide, is flanked by Tiffin's high brick wall. Can something be done to make this stretch of pavement safer?

Delivering a message: Edward Davey MP, Max Freeman and Helen Whately join a post office protest

Deadlinepix KT19519

Davey and Whately deserve praise

Despite the valiant efforts of Liberal Democrat and Conservative councillors led by Edward Davey MP and Helen Whately (Conservative parliamentary candidate) many local post offices are to close. All parties knew the chances of success, but they tried in a united effort.

Hopefully Edward Davey MP will secure Boris Johnson's active support (as promised) to rezone our local stations. What a shame the Kingston Conservative leader, Howard Jones, cannot add his support.

No, he makes the point that Edward Davey is a failure as regards "campaigns".

So where does that leave Helen Whately in his eyes with all her local party support? Sometimes you cannot win a fight because of an oppressive New Labour Government. Congratulations to both Edward, Helen and others for trying, and to paraphrase TV's Pub Landlord: "Howard Jones, shame on you!"

COUN LESLIE JONES
Surbiton

Postal disorder is a common problem

For the past few years customers of New Malden post office have probably become accustomed to being delayed by counter staff, who have been forced to continually offer additional services by Royal Mail management.

Some people are offered credit cards, life insurance, and car insurance on a weekly basis. But as the queues have grown, Royal Mail has decided to reduce the number of staff available to serve the public and place two managers at the New Malden branch instead.

Now the handy stamp machine dispensing single first and second class stamps has been removed from within the office, meaning customers will either have to purchase a book of stamps from the external stamp vending machine or join the growing queue.

The length and time spent by customers in the queue is no longer a concern for Royal Mail (which used to aim at an average of five minutes), which now tells staff that it is sales that matter, not the overall good service that customers deserve.

With the closure of many local sub-post offices due imminently, it is reassuring that New Malden post office will now offer two managers to complain to.

Jason Piper is an internationally-renowned dancer and, as well as touring with Kylie Minogue and Christina Aguilera, he appeared in Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix as the centaur Bane. After taking up a post as a dance lecturer at Kingston University, the 31-year-old from Mitcham talks to ALITA HOWE about his career and plans for the future

Tutor's dance with the stars

Where did your passion for dance come from?
Cats the musical was a big influence on me. I was always jumping around on the furniture so my parents sent me to Saturday school to learn ballet and tap dancing. I suppose my passion comes from having too much energy!

You've travelled the world and danced with some very famous names – what has been your proudest achievement?
I was the lead in Matthew Bourne's version, the definitive version I believe, of the Swan Lake ballet with the New Adventures company. It was like being James Bond and this was a role I had dreamed of.

How did touring with Kylie come about?
I was asked to come to an audition and became a contemporary specialist. It was great fun and Kylie is frighteningly intelligent – and very good at Scrabble!

What made you want to come to Kingston to teach dance?
When the opportunity arose last year to finish helping to write the degree course I couldn't say no. The ethos of the course – to have classical, urban and contemporary dance all talking to each other – was appealing. That's how the x-factor happens, when unique combinations take place. I don't see any reason why my students can't be professionals in many dance fields – I am ambitious for my little ones.

Is dance taken seriously as a degree subject?
It absolutely should be but we have really struggled with convincing people that dance is every bit as intellectual as other higher education courses. The physical and mental concepts the students are grappling with are complex – how do you describe movement or the cultural significance of a handshake?

What are your plans for the future?
I want Kingston University to be put on the map as the foremost dance course in the UK and the place to study.

THEATRE: The Lady of Burma, Arthur Cotterell Theatre, Kingston

Simon Fitzjohn

The inspirational true story of Burmese leader Aung San Suu Kyi is the central thread of Richard Shannon's poignant production The Lady of Burma, which has a one-night-only appointment at the Arthur Cotterell Theatre this week.

Using material from interviews and Suu Kyi's own writing, the one-woman play charts the struggle of the political leader, who has been under house arrest for more than a decade.

And for Shannon, bringing his production to the stage is the end of a long road of his own.

He reveals: "When I was at Oxford, I had a good friend who was Burmese but we lost touch in the early 80s.

"I still kept in touch with the story of Burma, though, especially the 88 uprising and Suu Kyi.

"Then, about four years ago, I was working at the Polka Theatre, in Wimbledon, and one of the many plays while I was there was about the Vietnamese boat people.

"I went for a coffee with one actress (Liana Gould) and realised she looked incredibly like Suu Kyi.

"In a completely spontaneous moment, I thought I should write a play about Suu Kyi and cast her as the lead."

With the wheels in motion, Shannon set about piecing together the background to both Suu Kyi and Burma.

And he admits it was no easy task: "I have had to do a huge amount of research and that took an awfully long time.

"I read everything she had ever written and a lot of the play is based verbatim on her words.

"I also applied for a grant to go to Burma and posed as a tourist.

"While I was there, I got a sense of the smells, the colour, the people – it was a hell of a long process."

That process came to fruition in November 2006, when Shannon's production had its premiere performance at the Old Vic, where it earned a standing ovation.

And, with the production now finally heading on tour, Shannon is delighted that Suu Kyi's tale is getting the exposure it deserves.

He concludes: "Suu Kyi is a fascinating woman.

"She is incredibly strong, ferociously honest and firmly believes in democracy.

"But beneath that surface is a vulnerable woman who has suffered an awful lot.

"The reason I want to tell this story is that the real human side is so much less well known."

Arthur Cotterel Theatre, Kingston College, May 16, 7.30pm, £5/£8, visit kingston.gov.uk.

Inspirational: After chatting with actress Liana Gould, Richard Shannon was struck by her resemblance to Suu Kyi – and wrote the play with Liana in mind

Pete's shipshape

GIGS: Pete & the Pirates, New Slang, The Works
Simon Fitzjohn

New Slang continues its recent run of quality breaking acts as Reading indie-rockers Pete & The Pirates pay a visit on Thursday.

Hotly tipped by the music Press, the quintet are currently touring to celebrate the launch of their critically acclaimed debut album, Little Death.

And, with new single She Belongs To Me set to crash the charts, it's a good time to be a fan of the amiable five-piece.

The band is the pet project of vocalist Tommy Sanders, who originally touted his talents as Tap Tap with his own album, Lanzafame.

Surfacing on Brighton-based Stolen Recordings, Lanzafame was a startling concoction of melancholy childhood memories and uplifting music.

But, as with label mates Screaming Tea Party and Let's Wrestle, Sanders quickly learned critical adoration does not always mean commercial success.

Deciding to branch out with a fully fledged band, Tommy recruited Peter Cattermoul (bass/vocals), David Thorpe (guitar), Jonny Sanders (drums) and Peter Heffernan (guitar and vocals).

And now, with a major push from Radio One's Zane Lowe, the band appear to be on the cusp of greatness.

Following their New Slang gig, the band will join The Pigeon Detectives for a UK tour, before hitting the festival season at Wireless, Reading and Leeds.

Described as "quirky yet hugely diverse exuding emotion in all guises", the band received a glowing review from NME for their debut album, classing it as "perfect pop without the pretence".

And, having nurtured a growing fan-base through an eye-catching MySpace page, and bubbling singles Knots and Mr Understanding, Sanders is now reaping the benefits.

Be sure to catch Pete & The Pirates before they set sail for larger oceans.

New Slang, Kingston, May 15, 8pm, £4/£5, 020 8549 5871.

Hastings goes West

GIGS: Jimmy Hastings Quartet, Ram Jam Club, Kingston
Simon Fitzjohn

Veteran saxophonist Jimmy Hastings returns to Way Out West this week – and admits he has little intention of locking away his instruments just yet.

The 70-year-old Scot was a centrepiece of the late, great Humphrey Lyttleton's eight-piece jazz band and has enjoyed a dazzling career spanning more than 50 years. But it all started from very humble origins.

Hastings reveals: "My family moved around quite a lot when I was young. I was born in Scotland, brought up in India, then came back to Britain.

"When I used to go to the cinema, there was always a band in the back and there were all these shiny instruments.

"It wasn't until I was 16, though, that I started getting into jazz and that was when I bought my first saxophone.

"Luckily for me, my father was an excellent pianist and my parents were very supportive of me.

But it wasn't until Hastings moved south that things really started to take off: "When I came down to London, at first I thought I was just coming down for a holiday – but I ended up staying.

"I was getting more work than I did back in Scotland and I was getting a bit of money for doing it."

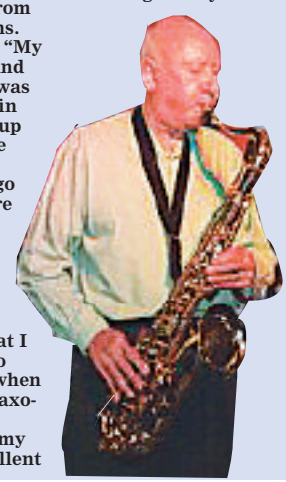

Hastings has since worked with a dazzling array of stars, including Frank Sinatra, Tony Bennett and even Radiohead.

And he insists that broadening your horizons is the only way to compete in the modern landscape.

He says: "If you want to survive as a professional musician, you need to be able to try your hand at just about anything.

"I have a simple philosophy – try to enjoy everything you do as if you are not enjoying it otherwise how the hell can you expect anyone else to?"

COMEDY: Lloyd Langford, Outside The Box, Fighting Cocks, Kingston

Simon Fitzjohn

Most comics admit to gradually finding their feet on stage but for Welsh funnyman Lloyd Langford, treading the boards came naturally.

Inspired by films of old, and eager to impress, Langford set about things early, as he explains: "From the age of about 11, I was keen on acting. I was mainly doing comedy roles in school productions and would throw in a bit of stand-up – but it was more jokes I had heard than jokes I had written."

Despite harbouring dreams of having audiences rolling in the aisles, it wasn't until Lloyd attended Warwick University that things really took off: "I was chatting to a girl who needed an MC for cabaret nights and I thought I would have a bash at it.

"Once I was up there I thought, 'I would love to do this as a career'."

Upon leaving university, and armed with Chortle's prestigious Student Comic of the Year award, Langford still found it difficult to break into the professional scene.

He explains: "The award gave me a few nice reviews, and it was easier to get people to give me gigs, but I was still doing part-time jobs in Kingston.

"After a while, though, I was earning more from my comedy work than my jobs."

Now a successful and in-demand funnyman, those early struggles may seem years away but we took Lloyd back to his student days when we posed him a few teasers:

SF: Who is your favourite stand-up comedian?

LL: Harry Hill – he is inventive from a comedy nerd point of view. He is really off-the-wall and incredibly talented.

SF: Is there such a thing as 'Welsh' humour?

LL: It is a kind of miserabilist humour. There's a definite underdog slant to it. I always refer to it early on in gigs as that cuts the sheep-shagging heckles dead!

> "I refer to Welsh humour early on as that cuts the sheep-shagging heckles dead"

SF: What is the best heckle you have heard?

LL: I remember a rape alarm going off at one gig which really stopped me in my tracks. Thankfully, it had been set off by mistake!

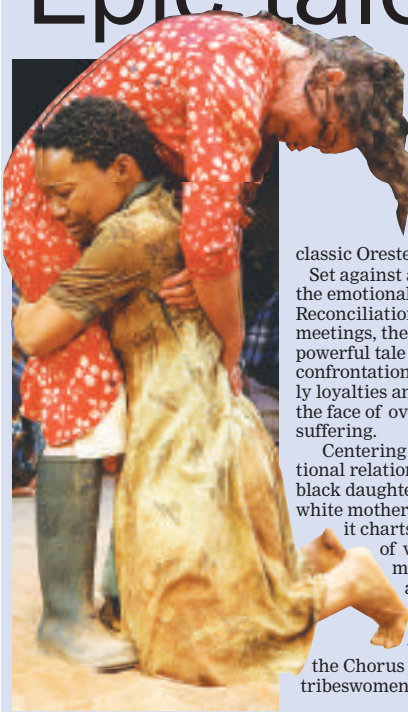

SF: When was the last time you flew?

LL: I flew to Munich recently, which was cool. I'm off to Singapore with my girlfriend and she is not a good flier. We'll be on the plane for 13 hours and she will need a lot of attention!

Outside The Box, Fighting Cocks, with Logan Murray, Kevin Precious, May 19, 7.30pm, £4/£7/£8. Fore more details call 07973 783339 or visit outsidetheboxcomedy.co.uk

Epic tale of apartheid

THEATRE: Molora, The Rose Theatre, Kingston

Simon Fitzjohn

South Africa's turbulent period of apartheid is the focal point of Yael Farber's stunning reworking of the Greek classic Oresteia – Molora.

Set against a backdrop of the emotional Truth and Reconciliation Commission meetings, the play is a powerful tale of dramatic confrontation, divided family loyalties and humanity in the face of overwhelming suffering.

Centering on the dysfunctional relationship between black daughter Elektra and white mother Klytemnestra, it charts the revelation of violent pasts, murderous acts and mental breakdowns. Adding grace to proceedings, the Chorus of Xhosa tribeswomen provide a musical accompaniment to the unfurling drama with their haunting, evocative singing.

The work is the brainchild of South African theatre artist Farber, born and raised in Johannesburg, who has drawn on her own experiences to both adapt and direct the production.

Critically acclaimed for her previous play, Shopping & Fing, which garnered seven national awards, she has now switched attention to a subject matter closer to home.

Oresteia, a trilogy of Greek tragedies, depicts the curse on the House of Atreus and was originally performed in 458BC.

A violent, blood-fuelled opus of murder, sacrifice and family power struggles, the play has provided inspiration for countless books, poetry, music and even cinema.

Farber's take, which translates as Ashes, was first performed at the Market Theatre in Johannesburg, where it received unanimously positive reviews – and the production has now switched to the UK thanks to Oxford Playhouse.

Famed for its previous employees that include Richard Burton, Judi Dench and Ian McKellen, the playhouse was forced to close in the 1990s but recently re-opened with a mandate for cutting-edge work.

And Farber's emotional tale certainly fits that bill, with critics raving about the quality of the work.

Kingston & Wimbledon YMCA

Registered Charity No. 1041923

Kingston and Wimbledon YMCA works with a broad range of people with diverse needs. We provide supported housing for young, vulnerable, homeless people, child-care and youth work, health and fitness activities, care and support those living with disabilities. We currently have the following vacancies.

CHEF

£18,400 per annum
40 hours per week on a rota basis (5 out of 7 days)

Assisting the Head Chef at YMCA Wimbledon and deputising in their absence, including the ordering, production of high quality food and special diets to be served to the public, residents, functions and events. Experience of staff leadership is relevant.

MOBILE-CHEF

£20,000 per annum (WORKING ACROSS ALL 4 CENTRES)
40 hours per week on a rota basis (5 out of 7 days)

Deputising in the absence of any of the Chef's and providing cover during functions or any other event across the four sites (Wimbledon, Surbiton, Kingston or Hampton Pool) To be fully involved in the development of the catering service, ordering, production of high quality food and special diets to be served to the public, residents, functions and events.

PART TIME ASSISTANT CHEF - KINGSTON

£7.28 per hour, 16 hours per week

Train as a Home Inspector

HIT

Up to 2 million properties being sold every year now need Home Information Packs which must include an Energy Assessment carried out by a newly trained Home Inspector or Energy Assessor. Thousands more of these new professionals will be needed later this year for the rental sector when Government requires around 1.6 million properties being let in the first year to also have Energy Assessments.

This creates new and interesting career opportunities and we require people to train now as Home Inspectors in their spare time. No previous surveying experience is required.

Thousands more new Home Inspectors will also be needed if Government confirm Packs must include a currently optional Home Condition Report.

Current fee earning expectations are £60 to £80 for Energy Assessments and £200 to £300 for Home Condition Reports with up to 15 Assessments or 6 Reports estimated to be carried out in a week, depending on size of properties and supply.

Applicants should apply now for a limited number of training places at the Government's ABBE approved centres of Home Inspector Training near London and in Bristol, Birmingham and Manchester. (4-night accommodation package advice if required.) The Course consists mainly of 7 separately bookable one-week modules, taken over up to 10 months, if this long is needed, and is designed to enable most people to train around their current commitments.

On qualifying you are awarded the ABBE Home Inspector Diploma required by Government and are able to carry out Assessments and Reports on your own, for other Pack Providers or, depending on the market share gained, for our own in-house Pack Provider in return for receiving a course subsidy. Once qualified, additional courses with qualifications now being researched may be available to carry out property valuations, Energy Assessments for commercial properties and flood and fire risk assessments to provide additional income streams.

Our training is exceptional. Working towards a professional licence you will learn about conflict management and communication. Courses also cover topics such as first aid, customer care and fire safety, and on-the-job coaching will bring you fully up to speed with our systems and procedures. All of which points to a great future in security.

You'll carry out a range of duties including patrols, vehicle checks and random exit searches as well as monitoring CCTV. What's more, you'll be a reassuring presence at the front desk dealing with colleagues and visitors.

Previous experience is not necessary, we are looking for sound judgement, alertness, people skills and professionalism, and a desire to learn and take advantage of the training on offer.

The culture is built around teamwork and support, and the rewards are everything you'd expect from an important government department.

A new career on your doorstep

Day in the life of a LOROL train driver

London Overground Rail Operations Ltd (LOROL) operates London Overground on behalf of Transport for London. As part of the multi-million pound investment to expand the East London Line, LOROL is recruiting trainee train drivers to drive its new trains and work at the New Cross Gate depot in 2010. Here is an interview with a LOROL employee who has already made the journey. We meet Laura Flint who has been a driver on the network for nearly 10 years

"I'd always enjoyed driving and had done driving jobs in the past," said Laura. "I hadn't considered train driving so when I saw a job advertised for a train driver I thought I'd find out more about the opportunity."

It was an opportunity that suited Laura, and after completing a training course and assessments, she became a fully qualified train driver and hasn't looked back. Based at Euston, Laura travels the full range of routes across the network, working a varied pattern of shifts.

"I like the variety that the shifts offer. Although I do work some early mornings, finish late and work at weekends, it means that I get time off during the daytime in the week. It's great to have that time to yourself and to get jobs done. I also get lots of long weekends," said Laura.

A typical shift for Laura varies from around six and a half to 10 hours, with ample breaks. For the majority of the shift she'll be driving the train – ensuring that overground passengers get to their destinations. As part of her role she also checks the train she'll be driving to make sure everything is safe and ready for the shift.

"I don't get a lot of passenger contact, but it's not as cut off as people think. Occasionally people will come to the window in stations to ask for information. It's good now there are conductors on some trains to help passengers out and also that all the stations are staffed.

"This helps passengers but it also makes me feel safer to know there are colleagues about," said Laura.

Laura has never had any problems being a female driver.

"It's not necessarily a job people think of for women, but there's no reason why it shouldn't be for everyone. An additional benefit for the ladies is having a uniform as I don't have to spend hours choosing an outfit in the morning! It's even better now we have smart new uniforms, which are also really comfortable."

Laura wouldn't go back to a typical 9-5 job now and would encourage any women who enjoy driving to consider a train driver role.

"I work with a great bunch of people," she concludes, "and it's always fun and lively."

Variety of opportunities

Leatherhead

Keeping dangerous vehicles off the UK's roads and trying to stop accidents before they happen – that's what we're aiming for at VOSA. From spot checking drivers and vehicles on the road, to testing vehicles at our testing stations and licensing vehicle operators, we're committed to making the roads safer.

Join us and you'll help to ensure that road users – particularly hauliers doing international journeys – comply with road safety laws. As part of the government's on-going drive to make the roads safer, we now have additional funds to recruit more people and make a real difference to the UK's roads. This includes new measures being introduced that will give our officers the power to collect on-the-spot penalties from drivers of illegal or unsafe vehicles who don't have a British address. We're looking for a variety of people to help us enforce this new legislation and to make the UK's roads even safer.

Traffic Examiners

£25,260 to £28,439 + additional shift allowance of £7,344

You'll be involved in checking a range of vehicles at the roadside or at operators' sites, for everything from tachographs and weight, to operator's licences. This will include checking the safety of hazardous materials being stored and transported. You'll also prepare papers and recommendations on cases for prosecution. Naturally, you'll need to be a good communicator, with a background in transport management and legal compliance, or experience of transport or law enforcement.

Vehicle Examiners

£28,210 to £31,389 + additional shift allowance of £7,344

You'll enjoy a variety of work, from carrying out spot checks at the roadside, to checking maintenance standards at bus and HGV depots. All the time, you'll be looking for mechanical problems that could be fatal – and you'll have the power to take them off the road, and take their owners to court. You'll also inspect vehicles that have been in accidents, and act as an expert witness in court when required. From dealing with a range of customers, to working with the police, you'll need the character to communicate with people from different backgrounds. You'll also have a relevant level 3 vocational qualification or equivalent.

We'll give you a range of benefits including 30 days' holiday, a Civil Service pension scheme and a childcare voucher scheme.

All posts involve shift working on a 24/7, 3 shift pattern (subject to change). Please see website for further details. A shift allowance of £7,344 is payable after completion of initial training & shift allocation.

To find out more and apply, go to www.vosa.gov.uk/careers

Closing date: 30th May 2008.

c.£30,000 salary + bonus (OTE £45,000) + benefits

This could be the career opportunity you've been looking for! Working for a market leader and selling a value-rich premium product, with excellent remuneration and great career prospects, this is a sales role where you will also genuinely make a difference to people's lives.

Sunrise Senior Living provide the highest level of caring accommodation for the elderly. With a turnover of $2.5bn and currently expanding throughout the UK and Europe, Sunrise is an outstanding business success and acclaimed for its training programmes and work environment.

Based within our new Esher location beside the A3, you will be responsible for driving sales forward by selling our unique product of caring accommodation to prospective residents and their families. Generating, qualifying and converting leads, this is a target driven, proactive sales role where you will need: a background in person-to-person, consultative style sales; familiarity with building relationships; experience of selling a premium product in a price conscious market; good IT skills, and the drive and determination to excel.

Initial interviews will be conducted locally. To apply, please send your CV to our retained consultant Terry Bryant at Bryant Consulting, Saville Court, Saville Place, Clifton, Bristol BS8 4EJ. Tel: 0117 968 2371 Fax: 0117 968 2378 Email: 840@bryantconsulting.co.uk

Currys
Customer Delivery Representatives – Epsom
Starting salary £17,114
(leading to £20,040 after final training)
Every day, all over the country, we're hard at work delivering quality goods to our customers. With every new TV or fridge we deliver, we probably make somebody's day – and we need the best team out there doing it.
We're looking for people as customer focused and quality driven as we are – people who'll enjoy the variety of a delivery role that involves more than just driving.
You're a quick thinker with initiative, capable of taking on installation tasks, who enjoys interaction with customers, and who's good at keeping in contact with the people back at base when necessary. You're also someone who wants a defined career path with one of the most dynamic businesses in the country.
Ideally, you'll need a driving licence for a 7.5 tonne vehicle. But what really sets you apart is your ability to provide great customer service. So, as long as you've got great team spirit, and can work a 5/8-day shift pattern, we will be happy to provide training.
Whether you're looking for a long-term career or just a great job, please contact Clive Tilston at Currys Distribution Centre, Units 2/3 Blenheim Road, Longmead Business Park, Epsom, Surrey KT19 9XX. Tel: 01372 744111.

Nissan QASHQAI Range

Qash converter

The crossover Qashqai is a rock solid addition to the road-biased 4x4 market. Andy Enright reports

In case you were wondering where the wacky name Qashqai came from, it's pronounced 'kash-kai' and is named after a desert-dwelling nomadic tribe from South Western Iran.

Although it's easy to be a little cynical about the window dressing, there can be little doubt that the product on display is rock solid.

The Qashqai, in reality, is somewhere between an all-wheel drive-orientated family hatchback (like a Fiat Sedici or a Suzuki SX4) and a road-orientated compact 4x4 (like Toyota's RAV4 or Honda's CR-V). And, like all of the current versions of these cars, it incorporates MPV-style practicalities on board.

Like many rivals of this kind, the Qashqai offers the choice of a two or a four-wheel drive platform, the front-wheel drive model being perfectly adequate for 95 per cent of customer's requirements.

There's one of the widest choices of engines in the sector with two diesels and two petrol powerplants.

Nissan hasn't skimped when it comes to transmission options either, the Qashqai being supplied with five and six-speed manual boxes, a six-speed auto option and even an advanced Constantly Variable Transmission (CVT).

There are two bodystyle choices too, the standard model now joined by a Qashqai+2 seven-seater variant. Here, everything behind the windscreen pillars has been modified. The wheelbase has been extended by 135mm and the overall length has grown by 211mm to 4,526mm. To make sure that rear seat occupants don't feel too hemmed in, the roof line has been re-profiled as well, adding 38mm to the car's height.

The doors have been re-designed and the side windows are now bigger, as is the rear tailgate window, making the back feel anything but claustrophobic.

The Qashqai is a welcome addition to the ranks of road-biased compact 4x4s.

It has some serious competition to face down but Nissan's recent track record is near faultless. You wouldn't bet against it.

Honda Civic range

Honda's Civic makes the chasing pack suddenly look very old indeed. Andy Enright reports

Future perfect

It's not too often a car is launched that, at a stroke, manages to make all of its rivals look way behind the curve. This however, is what Honda has managed with the latest Civic. This car marks a new generation of family hatches.

Bucking the trend for successive Civics to be bigger and heavier than their predecessors, the latest car is significantly more compact than the seventh generation model. Overall length is 35mm less and the car stands lower by the same amount. In order to create a more dynamic stance, width has increased by 65mm. It's this change in dimensions that give the Civic its rather pugnacious demeanour.

The Civic's face is quite unlike any other car on the road, bringing to mind the glazed-in nose of the old Citroen SM. Headlamps sitting at the front corners are obviously old hat as the Civic adopts an illuminated bar. Few cars pursue the one-box look quite as aggressively as the Honda either, the cab-forward design and wedged side profile giving the impression that the car has been moulded rather than designed on a computer.

The detailing is very neat, with a repeating triangular theme appearing on the front fog lights, exhaust pipes and rear trim.

This model is far sassier – though if you don't agree, there's the option of going for one of the sportier Type-S or Type-R three-door models. Prices start at £14,480 for the five-door and £15,480 for the three-door bodystyle.

The dashboard is designed on two levels, the main instruments housed on the nearer one with a surrounding 'tier' that includes auxiliary functions like stereo, heating, ventilation and trip meter. This three-dimensional feel to the fascia is backed up with quality materials and textures.

Although the latest Civic is significantly smaller than its predecessor on the outside, the company claims that room inside is just as generous as before. Instead of trying to understand how Honda has warped the time-space continuum, it's easier to spot the simple engineering solutions it has employed. The Civic features a fuel tank that's centrally mounted along the cross member below the front seats. The Civic also features seats that fold and flip with one smooth action.

Standard across the range are features like climate control air-conditioning, Vehicle Stability Assist (VSA), trip computer, front, side and curtain airbags, rake and reach adjustable steering column and rear 'Magic' seats.

High grade models feature innovations such as automatic lights and wiper functions, high intensity discharge headlamps, Dual Zone Climate Control and retractable door mirrors, in addition to options such as alloy wheels, DVD satellite navigation and leather trim.

With a stronger body structure and subframes, recessed pedals, double pretensioners on the front seatbelts and side curtain airbags, this car has achieved a Euro NCAP five star result for front and side impact safety, three stars for pedestrian safety and four stars for child protection safety.

The entry level powerplant is an 82bhp 1.4-litre petrol unit, with a 139bhp 1.8-litre petrol engine offering a bit more punch and a 2.0-litre unit offered on the flagship Type-R.

The most popular engine in the range is the 139bhp 2.2-litre diesel unit. All are mated with a six-speed manual gearbox, making the Civic the first car in the family hatch sector to be equipped with six-speed gearboxes across all of its range.

CITROEN LONDON WEST

The French Fayre

This coming weekend, 17th and 18th May 2008, Citroen London West will be holding a French Market at the London Welsh Rugby Club on Old Deer Park near to Kew Gardens.

This will be a fantastic opportunity to sample the delights on offer from professional market traders from all over Europe selling a variety of top quality food, drinks and continental crafts.

It will also be a fantastic opportunity to visit the Citroen London West's stand where they will be displaying a number of new and used models from Citroen's exciting range. For this weekend only a selection of their used vehicles will also be available at cost price to customers. This is a fantastic opportunity for you and your family to enjoy an amazing day out whilst at the same time considering the purchase of a car.

Everyone is catered for with a Formula 1 simulator for those wishing to test their driving skills on the world's best circuits. A Rugby 7's tournament will also be on going during the weekend at the club for all visitors to enjoy. Full bar facilities will also be available during the weekend.

There will be plenty of retail therapy opportunities for the ladies too from the many stalls and vendors planning to be at the fayre. The children have also not been forgotten as there will be specially arranged events for them to join in as well as a bouncy castle and other attractions to keep them amused.

This is going to be a fantastic weekend for the whole family sponsored by Citroen London West.

You can find them on Capital Interchange Way, London (TW8 0EX) or, for more information on this coming event, telephone (0844) 470 4288.

You can also visit their website at www.londonwest.citroen.co.uk.

Moore to fore as Brits shine

Surbiton's Rob Moore was captain as Great Britain held world number one Germany to two draws and a narrow victory in three Tests last week, writes Sean Cotter.

Of his five clubmates from the Long Ditton-based side, Matt Daly was the only one to trouble the scorers, converting from a penalty corner in Saturday's 4-4 draw at Essen.

That came after GB had held the gold medal favourites for Beijing to a 2-2 in Dusseldorf last Thursday.

The hosts regained some pride on Sunday morning, winning 2-1.

Moore, Daly and Surbiton clubmates Ben Marsden, Ben Hawes, Richard Alexander and James Tindall are aiming to be among the 16 players who make it on the plane to China, with the squad to be announced on June 20.

Win gets away

Kingstonian threw away a great chance of starting their season with a win at Edward Alleyn.

Needing just 14 runs to win with four wickets and plenty of overs in hand, they somehow contrived to fall five runs short.

Former skipper Nadim Malik hit 73 in 70 deliveries to take his side to the brink of success but, after he fell on 144, Ks lost their final three wickets for 10 runs.

Ks had earlier dismissed the home side for 158, with Moteen Butt and Hamid Malik taking three wickets each.

Malcolm Bennett marked his return from a hip operation with 4-27 as the second XI defeated Lingfield by 93 runs.

Patel seeks more Velocity

Kingsmeadow-based Velocity racer Tushar Patel is praying injury will not prevent him from fulfilling his Paralympic dream this summer, writes Nick Clowes.

The 29-year-old, who is recovering from a hand injury and a cracked rib, missed out on selection for Sydney in 2000 and Athens four years later.

But he needs to find form fast after a disappointing showing at the Paralympic World Cup in Manchester.

Patel was sixth in the T54 1,500m race in a time of three minutes 27.01 seconds, and seventh in the 400m in 54.93.

He said: "I think I am trying to get back to the top too quickly and it is not as continuous as it should be."

The Paralympic World Cup is hosted by the British Paralympic Association. It is sanctioned by the IPC and IWBF, and supported by UK Sport, Manchester City Council and the Northwest Regional Development Agency.

No time off for bosses as Ks seek winning mix

by STUART AMOS

samos@london.newsquest.co.uk

Kingstonian assistant Mark Hams has revealed he and boss Alan Dowson expect to land two new signings this week as they prepare for next season.

Ks finished outside the Ryman League Division One South play-offs this season, after claiming anything less than a top-five spot would be deemed a failure.

And the management team have vowed they will not rest until they have put right the wrongs of last season, starting with bringing in a few fresh faces.

Hams said: "The temptation is to kick back, relax and take it easy for the next few weeks, but I can tell you we started work the minute the final whistle went.

"It is obvious we need better strikers and defenders, but I think we are interested in taking anyone who is better than we have at the moment.

"I would like to think we will have two new players signed by the end of this week – possibly three.

"That is how seriously we are taking things this summer."

Dowson will be hoping for at least one new central defender to come on board after news emerged that Gavin Cartwright had left the club by mutual consent.

The former Walton & Hersham centre-back made 37 appearances last season, inwhich Ks finished seventh, but work commitments would have limited his availability in the new campaign.

Dowson said: "He has done a job for us in a couple of positions and is a really nice guy – the sort I would be happy for my daughter to come home with when she's older!"

● Dowson's Kingstonian Soccer School – for ages six to 14 – runs from May 27-30 (10am-3pm daily) at Hinchley Wood Secondary School, Esher.

SPORTS*brief*

MOTORSPORT: New Malden's Tom Onslow-Cole hopes his VX Racing Vauxhall Vectra can give him a belated birthday present in rounds 10, 11 and 12 of the British Touring Car Championships at Thruxton on Sunday. Onslow-Cole, who turns 21 on Friday, landed three podium finishes in his last outing at Donington Park, but has finished no better than seventh in Hampshire in previous visits. "I had a fantastic weekend at Donington and will still be fired up when we arrive at Thruxton. I am sure I can improve on previous results," he said.

More motorsport: yourlocalguardian.co.uk

BOWLS: Malden & Coombe got the season off to a good start with convincing wins over Surbiton RBL and Epsom Park in the Sutton & District League, as well as victory against Surbiton in the Kingston & District League. This was undone by heavy losses to Sutton Common and Southey.

More bowls: yourlocalguardian.co.uk

CRICKET: Malden Wanderers went down by three wickets to champions Reigate Priory in their first match back in the Surrey Championship Premier Division at the weekend. Laurie Evans made 54 in Malden's 148 all out, before Reigate reached the total with 12 overs to spare.

Cricket scoreboard: yourlocalguardian.co.uk

CROSS COUNTRY: Kingston & Polytechnic's Rachel Burbridge claimed the women's weekly Banstead Woods 5km time trial for the sixth time on Saturday morning. She was 16th overall in a time of 19 minutes 58 seconds.

See where you finished: yourlocalguardian.co.uk

CRICKET: Long Ditton began their Fuller's League Division One season with a five-wicket defeat at Effingham. Having won the toss and elected to bat, Ditton were dismissed for 113, Michael Hall top-scoring with 42. The home side were untroubled in their run chase.

HOW IT WORKS

We've built our business on being up front about what happens when we help you with a quick house sale. You can read through what is involved each step of the way, what to expect and how to sell your property quickly and painlessly.

OUR PROMISE TO YOU

Once you have sold, you can move on, stay for a short period whilst arranging your move, or rent back the property on a long term basis. Our service is totally without cost or obligation. See our Charter for more information about how we operate and our beliefs.

TESTIMONIALS

We have many satisfied customers because, unlike other companies who only want to buy your house as cheaply as possible, we try and structure a proposal that works for you as well as for us. Find out what just a few of our customers have said about us…
